HOLLAND MAN PROMOTED.

Ludington Chronicle.

After serving for a period of six years as local district manager for the Michigan State Telephone Co. at Ludington, Arthur E. Huntley of this city will leave next week for Benton Harbor to accept a similar position with his company as district manager in charge of exchanges at Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Coloma, Berrien Springs and several other smaller towns. In his new position Mr. Huntley will have charge of a territory containing nearly double the number of telephones now installed in the Ludington district.

In the meantime Manager Huntley's position in charge of the Ludington district will be given to Jos. J. Kelly at present in charge of the Cadillac district.

The above mentioned changes are of significant import to the local public in that both managers who are by opinions which Attorney General Kuhn handed down today.

Relative to the act which authorized township officers to raise their own salaries, in case the people approve, the attorney general states that the law does not contain any provision for submitting the question to a vote of the people, and this lack of election machinery is fatal, as there is no general statute governing the submission of such questions.

In response to a question from St. Clair county, the department holds that school commissioners elected last spring and taking office July 1, cannot secure an increase in salary under the law providing for graded salaries for these officials according to the number of schools, in their respective counties. It is pointed out that the law did not take effect until August 1, a month after they went into office, and the constitution bars any increase or decrease of the salary of an officer after he has been appointed or elected to an office.

THE DEER HUNTING SEASON.

With the opening of the deer hunting season but a month away, County Clerk Jake Glerum is preparing for the rush for licenses, and he has already received the 1911 consignment of licenses, and at once placed them on sale. Although the arrival of the licenses is nearly two weeks earlier than in former years, applications have been on file at the office for several days. The fee this year, as in the past, will be $1.50 for Michigan residents.

While the deer season extends from October 15 to November 30, the licenses are good for only 25 days from the date they are issued, and the hunters who are planning to go into the northern forests late in November will not secure their licenses for some time, but those who expect to make for the north the opening week, are expected to take out their hunting permits next week.

There are no changes in the laws governing the hunting of deer in Michigan this year. Each hunter is restricted to two deer, with a heavy penalty for the killing of a third.

Here are a few tips to the deer hunters:

Open season from October 15 to November 30, inclusive. Resident hunter's license, $1.50; non-resident hunter's license, $25. Each license expires 25 days after date of issue.

Unlawful for any person to kill more than two.

Unlawful to kill in red coat, or fawn or spotted coat.

Unlawful to pursue, kill or capture any deer while it is in the water.

Unlawful to use dogs in hunting.

Unlawful to use artificial lights in hunting.

Unlawful to kill, until 1912, in Arenac, Benzie, Cheboygan, Emmet and Leelanau counties.

Unlawful to kill, until 1920, in Berrien, Calhoun, Genesee, Ingham, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Oakland and St. Clair counties.

Unlawful to kill, until 1918, on Bois Blanc Island.

Unlawful to knowingly trap, injure or kill any deer or offspring thereof which are kept in or have escaped from any private enclosure.

Saloon Question up in Grand Haven

There is considerable consternation among the saloon men of the city and some perplexity among them as to just how they stand in the community and what their status is here under the present order of things. The ordinance limiting the number of saloons in the city to five, is now a law and will go into effect next spring, providing it is not repealed. At the present time there are thirteen saloons in Grand Haven and the question is now, how will the reduction be made. It has been suggested by a leading alderman that the names of all the liquor dealers be placed in a hat and after being thoroughly mixed, allow some disinterested party to pick out the cardboard slips, and allow the first five names to continue business. What a time there would be at the drawing. Another alderman who has lived at Grand Haven for forty years or more, says that unless the present number is allowed to do business he would be in favor of but five. This alderman has seen Grand Haven in its wildest days and he believes that the saloons are better conducted now in this city than they ever were. All sorts of rumors are in circulation among the liquor element. Some think the abolishment was for the purpose of benefiting others and others think it was done so that the city could put in force a thousand dollar city liquor license. Grand Haven Tribune.

Through the Woodman Lodge of which Mr. C. C. Wheeler was a member his family will receive $2000 on insurance taken out by Mr. Wheeler in that organization.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. L. Houtgeerts on Nineteenth street—a son.

New Hospital Desired

The agitation which has so long been carried on in behalf of the City Hospital has at last brought results as suggested in the News a few weeks ago the time is now ripe for this project.

Fifteen prominent men in this city have already subscribed $500 and 4 or 5 more have signified their intention to aid the worthy cause with donations of $500 each. In addition to this main sum other lists for subscriptions will be circulated throughout the city and from smaller contributions the committee expects to be able to more than equal the amount subscribed in the larger donations.

It is not known yet just how soon those in charge of the project will be able to get the plans so far along that work can be started but there is no reason why it should take longer than next spring.

With the planning of the new Hospital building three public buildings are now in contemplation for the city. Besides the hospital there will be the new High school building and the new Federal building.

Chance for Four in County Normal

Owing to the fact that four people who were expected to enroll in the Ottawa County Normal school failed to do so there are now four vacant seats which the school officials hope will be filled before Monday Sept. 18 after which date no new students will be admitted.

Anyone who has completed ten grades in the public schools is accepted in the county normal. Anyone desiring to take advantage of the present opportunity should call or telephone Lawrence H. Vandenberg, superintendent of school at Grand Haven.

LOCAL MEN CHOSEN.

The Macatawa Bay Yacht club at their annual election have selected Walter Lane of this city as vice commodore and Charles Floyd as one of the directors of the club.

It is the plan of the yacht club to make the organization more on the order of the country club where automobilists may assemble as well as yachtsmen. The new dinner service added this season has been so successful that the executive board has decided to feature it on a larger scale next year. A larger dining hall room will be provided and other facilities added. A garage will be erected near the club house for the accommodation of autoists and the drive will be made to the club door.

A large ice house will be erected and a new and more spacious pier will be installed.

Interest Motorboat Owners.

Motorboat interests will be featured next year. A committee has already been chosen which will arrange a regatta schedule for next August and to increase the membership among motorboat owners. Another new feature will be the addition of a rowing regatta. In connection with this, there will be staged swimming races in which prominent members of Chicago and Grand Rapids Athletic clubs will enter.

That the Macatawa Bay Yacht club is in a position to be one of the best on the great lakes, was demonstrated this year when, after several years of activity, it was rejuvenated and ended both a social and financial success. Bigger things are planned for next year, and within two or three years the club will, under proper management, be one of the leaders of the Lake Michigan Yachting association.

Officers and Committees.

The officers and committees chosen for 1912 follow:

A. W. Hompe, commodore; Walter Lane, vice commodore; William Logie, rear commodore; Charles Scates, secretary; John Tromp, treasurer.

Directors—Henry Idema, Robert Irwin, Charles Camburn, S. A. Miller, W. Holdway, Charles Floyd, J. B. Pantlind, H. J. Gray, D. C. Miller, Alfred Baxter, D. P. Perry, Robert S. Weeks.

Executive Committee—Charles Floyd, Robert Quinn, Charles Camburn, S. A. Miller.

The barn of T. Vander Vusse about two miles north of Holland was burned to the ground together with three other buildings during the severe electrical storm Monday evening. Two horses, four cows, one calf and 8 hogs were burned to death in the barn. Besides this loss of stock eight tons of hay, a large quantity of grain and numerous farm implements were destroyed. The loss amounts to about $3000 and is partially covered by insurance.

Father H. P. Maus of St. Patrick's church at Grand Haven will be transferred to St. Andrew's church at Saginaw. He has been a popular priest here and the church has prospered greatly in his charge.

driven by G. J. Kamps of Holland.

Although she had lived to the age of 63 and had much of that time resided near an interurban line, Saturday was the first time that Mrs. Wm. De Jonge of Zeeland took a ride in an interurban car. She was persuaded to make a trip to Grand Rapids and expressed as much surprise at riding in a car as anyone might who made his first trip in an airship. Mrs. De Jonge lives on a farm north of Zeeland.

The remains of Bouke Wierda, who died at the asylum in Kalamazoo, were brought to his home in Zeeland Friday. The deceased was born in the Netherlands and came to this country 46 years ago. He is survived by a widow and nine children, Mrs. H. Wolbert of Laketown; John Lookers of Zeeland; Jacob Lookers of Borculo; Mrs. A. De Tree of the Second Reformed church of Zeeland. The classis listened to the report of the classical missionary, Rev. A. Van Arendonke. The president, Rev. Mr. Van Kersen addressed the classis on missions. For foreign missions $282,000 was donated by the Reformed church, this being $74,000 more than last year. Rev. H. J. The place of meeting will be at Holland. The evening meeting took place at the First Reformed church and was opened by Rev. G. Van Westenburg of Jamestown and by Rev. Van Zomeren of Cleveland, O.

HAMILTON.

Rev. George Hankamp returned Wednesday morning to his home after having visited with his parents in Grandville.

Former school commissioner Ira G. Thorpe has moved his household goods from Allegan to the house formerly occupied by W. L. Woodruff, east of town.

The Hyslop crabapple crop from the orchard of Henry Mead of Mack's Landing is expected to amount to 800 barrels and the owner hopes to receive at least $5.50 per barrel. The orchard is the largest and finest of its kind in the county, 700 well developed trees.

One of the specially busy places in town is the Bulthuis glove factory. The superintendent says he has to work unduly hard to keep anywhere near filling the orders given him. They have ten sewing machines which put the gloves together, and the clicking of these and the sound of the other machinery make pleasing music to the management. Starting in a very small way, Mr. Bulthuis has built a considerable business which is bound to have farther growth. Several kinds and qualities of cotton gloves are made and the goods have secured a well established reputation in the general market. They are so good that one lot always sells another.

This has not, so far, proved to be the best year on record for cucumbers, although the total product will be large, over five thousand bushels having been received at the salting station up to the first of this week. The vines had suffered from drought, and it is a question whether the recent rains will revive them enough to make them very productive. One of the most successful growers is Chas. Kimber, who lives in the village and rents land. He has two acres this year and is paying $10 per acre rent, from which he is sure to receive not less than $250 for cucumbers. In this business as in others, personal attention and care count for as much as good soil and helpful rains.

DRENTHÉ.

Mr. and Mrs. Brandershorst were in Zeeland visiting friends this week.

It was a busy day Thursday at the canning factory at Drenthe. Twelve hundred bushels of tomatoes were received, the largest consignment in many years. The factory runs day and night to can the tomatoes. The farmers come many miles distance to bring their crop to the factory.

A wedding took place in the village of Drenthe at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Seinen when their daughter Gertrude was united in marriage to Harry Maatman of Overisel. Many relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. T. Vander Ark, pastor of the Christian Reformed church. When the couple entered the room which was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns, Miss Delia Maatman, sister of the groom, played the wedding march. Soft music was played during the ceremony. The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin and carried bridal roses. An elaborate supper was served. The young couple left for a short wedding trip and will make their home in Holland where the groom intends to take up carpenter work.

was united in marriage to Miss Gertrude Ver Hage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Ver Hage, at Vriesland. Many relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. G. De Jonge, pastor of the Reformed church at Vriesland. The young couple received many beautiful and useful gifts and a wedding supper was served. They will make their home at the farm of the groom's mother at Vriesland.

The Proof That Holland Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test. Mrs. M. Van Houten, 287 W. Thirteenth St., Holland, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for many years. The pains through my back and loins and under my shoulder caused me untold agony and I could hardly bend or exert myself in any way. Whenever I caught cold it settled in my kidneys, greatly aggravating my suffering. As a further indication of kidney trouble, the kidney secretions became unnatural. I was restless at night and was unable to sleep well. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Doesburg's Drug Store and had used them only a short time before I was cured. I gave a statement for publication telling of my experience in 1900 and am very glad to confirm it now. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills on several occasions since then and they have always brought great benefit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE FRESH EGG.

An egg which has just been dropped and is still warm entirely fills its shell, but as it cools to the temperature of the air it contracts, leaving a small space at the large end of the egg. As the egg ages, whether from long keeping under favorable conditions, this space increases in size, due to the escape of moisture from the egg through its shell. When the air space becomes pronounced, as is so often seen here in the arid region—it may in extreme cases occupy half the shell.—Denver Field and Farm.

MESSAGES FROM THE MAYOR.

The Mayor presented the following message:

"Believing it to be the duty of the Mayor to call the Council's attention to anything which may pertain to the welfare and happiness of the public, and to correct any abuses practised by any of our public utility corporations, I submit the following:

It has been the practice of the Interurban Company on holidays to use flat cars, cattle cars, and any and every old car for the transportation of passengers. While this is in violation of the law and their franchise, the long-suffering people have gracefully submitted without a murmur, because most of us believe in the good old Republican doctrine of protecting and encouraging infant industries. But there comes a time in the life of a corporation, as well as an individual, when it must discard infant garbs and methods and show that it is matured. I believe that this time has come in the life of the Grand Rapids, Holland & Chicago Railway Co. They should be officially notified that from now on this practice of carrying passengers in foul-smelling freight cars will not be tolerated; that in order to take care of their growing passenger traffic they will have to provide comfortable and respectable cars to carry them.

I further wish to call your attention to the fact that the summer schedule has ended and that we are again receiving an hourly service. Every winter there is a demand on the part of some of our citizens for a better city service, and often the Mayor and Aldermen are asked why we do not compel the street railway to live up to its franchise. Now, it is an error on the part of many that the franchise of the Street Railway Company compels them to give better service than they are giving. Section 11 of their franchise provides that the Council shall have the right to make reasonable regulations for running the cars during the entire year but that until the city's population shall have reached 15,000, cars shall not be required to run oftener than every fifteen minutes each way.

I am not prepared to say that a fifteen minute service is necessary, nor do I know whether with a single track system it is possible on the part of the Railway Company to maintain such service without greatly interfering with their regular interurban cars. I would like, however, to have the Council take such action in both these matters, to which I have called attention, as will satisfy the people, and in so doing, serve the best interests of the Railway Company. A contented public is the best asset a public utility corporation can possess, and any corporation which loses sight of this fact is short-sighted and should be taught the error of its way."

On motion of ald. Brouwer, the message was accepted and filed.

On motion of Ald. Jellema: Resolved, that the message presented by the Mayor be referred to a committee of three appointed by the Mayor, said committee to take up the matters contained in said message with the G. R. H. & C. Ry. Co.

Carried.

The Mayor appointed as such committee Aldermen Lokker, Brouwer and Drinkwater.

Stand By Kamferbeek

Yesterday morning in circuit court a jury brought in a verdict against Chief of Police Kamferbeek for $225 damages and costs for false imprisonment. The officer had made an arrest that he had believed to be justified under the circumstances as he found them. He was acting in his capacity as guardian of the rights and property of the citizens of Holland.

He arrested a man known to him only by sight, against whom he could not possibly have held any ill will or malice, there were no fees in the arrest for the officer—nothing but the loss of time and the trouble involved. He was acting conscientiously in the performance of the duties of his position. He did not even lay hands on the man arrested. The evidence in his mind and in the minds of local attorneys was sufficiently strong to warrant making the arrest as he did.

The attorneys who represented Mr. Kamferbeek in this suit have taken exceptions to the instructions given the jury by Judge Padgham thereby opening a field for appeal to the supreme court of the state. We know nothing of the correctness or error of these instructions but we are glad that the foundation for an appeal has been prepared. For this gives an opportunity for a higher tribunal than our circuit court to pass upon this case and if there was error in the instructions to the jury it can then be remedied.

Prominent men in the city, township and county are greatly wrought up over the outcome of this particular case. They feel that to say the least it has created a bad precedent in the county. They argue that if any officer, relying on evidence that to a reasonable man is strong enough to warrant holding a prisoner for a suspected crime without a warrant, makes an arrest in good faith and is afterward compelled to pay damages when the facts are shown to be otherwise, few officers in this county will dare arrest a suspect unless they are in possession of a warrant. Good faith and reasonable diligence will no longer protect them nor will they any longer be in a position to protect the citizens. We doubt very much if this is the law.

And the point of what we have to say is this: A bad precedent will have been established if this case is not reversed on appeal or at least sent back for a new trial. Such an appeal will cost money. It seems to us that this money should not come from the pocket of the officer who was trying fairly and honestly to do his duty for the city. It should come from the city itself. It is too important a point to be passed over and accepted without a struggle.

A Good Suggestion

Alderman Brouwer's suggestion that all those not now connected with the sewers on streets where there is a possibility of such connections should be compelled to install sewers about their premises is a good one.

While it may seem at this time that an unnecessary burden is being placed on the parties who would be affected by the recommendation of Alderman Brouwer yet this will not be found to be true after the proposed improvements are made. Every property owner will wonder how he was able to get along without what shall then be proved to be a necessity.

Whole assessment districts have strenuously objected to burdens for public improvements but when the improvements finally were made few of those objecting could be found to desire a return to the former unimproved conditions. Much of the satisfaction with any improper conditions is caused by reason of the fact that the satisfied ones are not familiar enough with the improved condition to realize that they are missing by not attaining it.

As far as the proposed improvement is concerned it should certainly be brought about. Public health demands that there shall be no recurrence of last summer's experience when on the excessively hot days the stench from back yards and alleys was absolutely unbearable.

Turn Out to the Fair

Tuesday will be the opening day of the fair of the S. O. and W. A. Agricultural society. This is an organization that stands for something in this community and is deserving of the support of every citizen. And there is no reason to expect anything other than that there will be the same support this year as in former years, that the same large crowds will turn out as have always come out in the past to visit this annual exhibition.

For there is something about a fair such as the Holland Fair that is attractive to Old and Young and all who visit the fair grounds are sure to return home satisfied.

This year there will be the same sort of entertainment that has made the fair a success in former years. There will be the same generous display of the good things that the farms surrounding this city can produce. There will be the usual races for the usual attractive prizes that will insure good horses. There will be the usual free exhibitions that help while away a pleasant afternoon in the grandstand. There will be the usual happy laughing through whirling in and out among the side shows and concessions. The variety department buildings will be thronged as usual.

One thing out of the ordinary is hoped for and that is perfect weather every single day of the fair. With such weather the fair this year should draw a larger attendance than any former fair.

At a recent plumber's convention there was a spirited discussion over the question; "Why do plumbers not make more money?" The reason probably is that they don't send back to the shops often enough for tools.

Some wag suggested that the Holland Interurban have mirrors put in their cars so placed as to induce the women to step off "front face". The company might heed this brilliant idea until the lady passengers wrecked the time schedules seeing if their hats are on straight and too much powder showing on their nose.

Echoes from Holland Veneer Works

The last chapter of the history of the Holland Veneer Works that went into bankruptcy about a year ago is about to be written when a bankruptcy sale of the plant, the office fixture, the veneers and lumber and the stock of process of manufacture will take place September 21.

FOUR LIFE SAVERS INJURED

By the falling of a scaffold upon which they were at work shingling the roof of the local station four members of the life saving crew were dashed to the wooden slide or incline, in front of the building, used for launching the boats, and receiver injuries that may keep them from their work for a long time to come. William Swarthout, surfman No. 1 sustained the most serious injury, his left leg receiving a compound fracture, one break being a few inches below the hip joint and the other about six inches above the knee. He also is suffering from internal injuries.

Harley Souter received severe injuries about his back. At first it was feared that his back was broken but later it was found to be badly wrenched. The injury may keep him out of the service for the remainder of the season.

Frank Bertsch received severe injuries about his leg and a bone in his foot was broken. It will be a long time before he will have the use of the member.

Martin Telguard received bad bruises about the chest and shoulders.

John Van Regenmorter, who was also on the scaffold with the other members of the crew, saved himself by hanging to a dangling rope 18 feet above the slide until other members of the crew came to his assistance with a ladder.

The injured men were given first aid by a visiting physician from Missouri who is stopping at Macatawa park and soon after the accident Drs. Cook, Thomas and Winter hurried to the scene and the men received due care.

Captain Van Weelden has made arrangements to give the injured men the best possible care. Substitutes have been provided to take the place of the injured members of the crew, not one of whom is likely to be able to perform the severe drills, watches and patrols before the season ends at midnight November 30th.

LIGHT REFLECTION.

The Reason Why Foam Always Appears White in Color.

When water or liquid of any color is violently agitated small bubbles of air are mixed up with it, and thus foam is formed, and its whiteness is due to the fact that when light passes from one medium to another of a different refractive index it is always reflected, and this reflection may be so often repeated as to render the mixture impervious to light.

It is, then, this frequency of the reflections of the limiting surfaces of air and water that renders foam opaque, and as each particle reflects light in all directions so much light is reflected that the mixture appears white.

To a similar cause is due the whiteness of transparent bodies when crushed to powder. The separate particles transmit light freely, but the reflections at their surfaces are so numerous that the resulting effect is white. Thus glass when crushed is a white powder and is opaque, but when it is put under water it once more becomes transparent, because the water fills up the interstices between the particles and the reflections are destroyed. Salt and snow are also common examples of this condition.

How Roots Penetrate Hard Ground.

The extreme tips of a delicate root are protected by a sheath set with minute scales, which as it is worn away by friction against the soil is as constantly replaced, so that it acts as a wedge and the root thread is carried down uninjured. Another aid to penetration lies in the provision whereby the root as it pushes downward in search of nourishment exercises a slightly spiral, screwlike motion which worms its tip into the ground. Another important agent is the acid cell sap, which exudes on to and dissolves to some extent the rock or hard soil. This may be tested by placing a small piece of polished marble in a pot in which a plant is set and covering it with earth. After some weeks the marble will be found to have been corroded by the continuous action of this acid.

Why the Spider Was There.

When Mark Twain in his early days was editor of a Missouri paper a superstitious subscriber wrote to him saying that he had found a spider in his paper and asking him whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The humorist wrote him this answer and printed it:

"Old subscriber—Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Nursery Windows.

If the nursery window is not protected by outside bars hammer a large screw or nail into the groove of the lower sash, so that the window cannot be raised more than six inches. If the top sash is drawn down this is quite enough for ventilation, and, no matter how ingenious or venturesome the little ones may be, they cannot wriggle through the lower opening.—Philadelphia Press.

Maybe Mary Was Too Sedate.

Mrs. Nuwed—Mary, for dinner I think we'll have boiled mutton with paper sauce. Are there any capers in the house? Mary—No, ma'am. Mrs. Nuwed—Then go out in the garden and cut some.—Harvard Lampoon.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

ON Friday, October 27, the University of Illinois will dedicate a new university hall that has been named in honor of Abraham Lincoln. Governor Deneen and many state officers, university and college presidents, and men of science and literature from all over the United States have promised that they will be present and participate in the various exercises. The appropriation of $250,000 for this beautiful memorial was made by the general assembly of Illinois in 1909, the 100th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. This three-story building, which was planned by the state architect, W. C. Zimmerman, has a frontage of 230 feet, is fire-proof, with exterior walls of Bedford stone, semi-glazed terra cotta and brick. The lines of the building are exceedingly simple, and the only elaboration is in connection with the entrance and the spandrels between the windows of the second and third stories which are modeled to depict scenes in the life of Lincoln. The building is intended to provide accommodation for the advanced work in the departments of English, Romance languages, Germanic languages, economics, political and social science and philosophy.

COST OF RAISING WHEAT.

Including the item of rent, the cost of raising wheat in the year 1909 was estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 66 cents a bushel; the cost of raising corn was 38 cents a bushel, and the cost of raising oats was 31 cents a bushel. These figures are probably a reasonable statement of fact where the three grains are successfully grown. The average wheat fields were 59 acres; corn fields, 30 acres, and average oat fields, 25 acres. The wheat cost the farmer to raise it $11.15 per acre; the corn $12.17 per acre and the oats $10.91 per acre. On the selling basis of 95 cents a bushel on farms, the wheat showed a profit of $5.33 per acre; on the selling basis of 62 cents a bushel on farms, the corn showed a profit of $7.82 per acre; on the basis of 40 cents a bushel at the farm, the oats showed a profit of $4.17 per acre. These are the figures of 1909. Today there is considerable decrease in price of grain and farmers are not making any such profits.

INSPECTED THE JAIL.

Judge of Probate Edward P. Kirby, County Agent Cornelius Roosenraad, William N. Angell and Arthur Van Duren, composing the board of jail inspectors, made their regular inspection of the county jail last week and have filed their report with the county clerk. Since the last jail inspection 351 prisoners have been confined in the county jail, classified as follows:

Drunk, 97; vagrancy, 142; forgery, 1; burglary of box car, 2; insane, 8; drunk and tippling, 2; burglary, 3; larceny, 11; drunk and disorderly, 15; assault with intent to do bodily harm, 1; assault and battery, 14; gross indecency, 1; false pretenses, 1; jumping board bill, 2; grand larceny, 1; carrying concealed weapons, 2; letting horse loose on street, 1; manslaughter, 2; slander, 1; selling liquor without license, 5; cruelty to animals, 2; obstructing highway, 1; drunk and disorderly, second offense, 1; larceny from person, 1; rape, 1; child abandonment, 2; exciting disturbance, 3; furnishing liquor to disorderly person, 1; using indecent and profane language, 3; suspected murder, 3; threatening to do bodily harm, 1; furnishing liquor to minor, 1.

At the present time there are sixteen confined in the jail, all males, thirteen serving sentence, two detained as witness and one detained for trial.

THE AMERICAN FARM.

Complete census returns issued this week by Director Durand, tell in greater detail, the interesting story of the American farm.

In the ten years which followed the census of 1900, the population of the United States increased 21 per cent, but the number of farms did not keep pace with the increase in population. From 5,737,372 in 1900 the number grew to 6,340,357, an increase of 602,985, or 10.5 per cent.

For the whole United States this is the lowest rate of increase which has been noted since the number of farms was first recorded in 1850. Measured by number of farms, agriculture exhibits a diminished rate of increase, and in large areas of the country is practically stationary.

The small growth in the number of farms has not been compensated by any growth in the size of farms, the average number of acres in farms having decreased from 146 in 1900 to 138 in 1910. The increase in the total acreage devoted to agriculture was only 35,137,000 acres, or 4.2 per cent. The actual area in farms was 838,592,000 acres in 1900 and 673,729,000 acres in 1910.

Improved land, however, increased more rapidly than the total farm acreage or number of farms, the advance being from 414,499,000 acres in 1900 to 477,448,000 acres in 1910, a gain of 62,949,000 acres, or 15.2 per cent in ten years. Yet this percentage of increase was only about two-thirds the growth of population, showing that at the best the number of acres under cultivation and used for the production of crops had not kept pace with the increase in the number of people.

In striking contrast with the slow growth in the number and acreage of farms and the area of improved land in the ten years is the enormous rise in the value of farm property. Farm land, exclusive of all buildings, which was valued at $13,058,008,000 in 1900, had more than doubled before 1910, being then returned as having a value of 28,386,770,000, an advance of 117.4 per cent in the value of fall and in farms.

It is immediately evident that the relatively small increase in the total acreage of farm land, 4.2 per cent, was one of the least important of the factors causing the great increase in aggregate value. The average value of farm land an acre increased from $15.57 in 1900 to $32.49 in 1910, a gain of $16.92 an acre, or 108.7 per cent.

Of the factors contributing to this increase in the average value of land the most important is doubtless that of advancing farm prices of agricultural products. This has increased the income-producing power of the farm and correspondingly influenced the selling or value of farm land.

A most significant feature of the census report is the comparison of salaries paid for farm labor in 1900 and 1910. In the former year, $357,392,000 went into the hired man's jeans. In 1910, the amount was $645,612,000.

Judge Padgham directed a verdict of no cause of action in the case of Dr. Arend Vander Veen against Geo. E. Ellis, mayor of Grand Rapids with costs taxed against the plaintiff. This ends one of the most interesting cases ever tried in this court. Dr. Vander Veen sought to recover $10,000 from Mayor Ellis on the ground first that his account with Ellis while the latter was running a brokerage business in Grand Rapids had been transferred to Connor H. Smith on representation that Smith was financially good but who later failed to the doctor's loss, and second on the ground that Ellis had not had stocks to deliver as Vander Veen thought he had but was merely running a bucket shop.

TREMENDOUS JOB FOR THE PAINTERS

STATE WAR AND NAVY BUILDING

WASHINGTON.—For the first time in many years the state, war and navy building is being painted. The enormous structure, said to be the largest government office building in the world, has become very dingy and there is rejoicing over its renovation. The job would take one painter more than a life-time, but large numbers of them will get it done in a few months.

THE SCHOOL CHILD'S NEEDS.

For the Holland City News.

The school year has just begun, and fond parents are carefully selecting new outfits of clothes so that their children may compare favorably in appearance with their neighbor's children.

But why only see that their stock of clothes is complete? Clothes do not make the man. It is far more important to see that both mind and body are in the best condition possible for development.

Many a child is forced backward toward the foot of the class because of some minor ailment which might be easily corrected by proper treatment.

Do not neglect a child because he seems stupid. Then is the time that he needs attention. Any child who is weak or does not learn easily should be taken to a competent physician who can often find defects in the child, the correction of which will make the child strong and robust both mentally and physically.

Our cities are fast coming to a realization of the fact that many of the children are backward, not because of lack of brains, but because their defective bodies do not supply the brain with enough good rich blood to develop properly. They hire reputable physicians whose duty it is to examine these children carefully, and, if any defect is found, to take steps to have it removed.

If a child is unable to see properly it cannot be expected to learn its lessons. The concentration and application necessary to accomplish this is impossible. And yet one-third of the school children are found to suffer from defective vision in various degrees. This is a condition which is easily remedied in the majority of cases by proper treatment.

One of the common causes of backward children are adenoids and tonsils. These are lymphatic growths in the throat which fill up the upper part of the throat and render breathing through the nose difficult or impossible. Such a child has a characteristic facial expression and is known as a mouth breather. Not only is the face affected, but backwardness in the development of the entire system is also caused. These are readily removed by a slight surgical operation.

See that the child receives plenty of fresh air and exercise. The body needs plenty of systematic exercise in the open air. A healthy body and a healthy brain go hand in hand and one seldom finds one without the other. See that the child's study and sleeping rooms are well ventilated so that it will not be poisoned by foul air.

A healthy start in life means health, wealth and happiness in later years. See that the child lacks none of the opportunities for this development.

If the child is frail or does not learn readily, look for a cause. There are many minor ailments and defects, the correction of which may be the turning point in the life of your child.

The best is none too good for him. See that no stone is left unturned in bringing the child to a healthy maturity and you will be astonished at the results. Very truly yours,

ROBERT L. DIXON, M. D., Secretary State Board of Health.

"BUSY IZZY'S" ANNUAL VISIT.

Brim full of the catchiest music, new novelties and pretty girls, George Sidney, the famous little Hebrew comedian, who is always a welcome visitor at the Majestic, will open a three days' engagement at the Majestic Thursday night, September 14, with his musical whirl, "Busy Izzy," which will be one of the popular attractions of fair week. One of the features of the George Sidney musical attraction is the beauty chorus which the comedian always offers and it is said that this season his pony ballet is better than ever. Another attraction of "Busy Izzy" is the versatile comedienne, Miss Carrie Weber. Other principals in the cast who are well known in musical comedy are Dick Hume, who has been associated with Mr. Sidney for several seasons; Nick Basil, Frank Gibbons, Walter Weber, Leona Burrad and Lottie Liscord.

The musical numbers are by well-known composers of popular music and are of the catchy and most whistly type.

The play is in two acts, the first taking place in Busy Izzy's department store and the second at a big summer hotel. The scenic equipment is said to be all new this season.

George Sidney's reputation as a laugh getter is known all through the country and with a surrounding of pretty girls and comedians, with catchy music and beautiful scenery, his popular show should please the fair crowds.

The usual Saturday matinee will be given.

THE FIERY FURNACE

Daniel iii—Sept. 17

"The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me."—Hebrews xlii, 8.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR had conquered the world. He instituted a great peace celebration and brought his representatives from all parts of the then civilized world to Babylon. These were to be duly impressed with the greatness and magnificence of the Babylonian power and of the futility of resisting it. They were to be given an illustration of the benefactions to result from having one government and having the entire world at peace.

When the great day of celebration came, with the governors, princes, captains and provincial rulers, the judges, treasurers, counselors and lawyers in their various robes of office and surrounded and interspersed with the delegates from various nations, the banners flying and the musical instruments playing, it must have been an impressive sight. It was a great time of jubilation.

At the appropriate time the religious unity of the empire was to be demonstrated by a general worship of the golden image of Bel-Merodach. Proclamation was made that soon the bands would begin to play and that then all would be expected to fall down and worship and reverence the image.

Courage of the Three Hebrews

Everything seemed to go well until it was reported to the king that three governors whom he had set over the provinces had rebelled against his decree and refused to worship the image of Bel-Merodach—had defied the king's power. Who were these three disturbers of Babylon's peace, spoilers of the great peace festival? They were the three young Hebrews whom the king had so graciously treated at the time of their captivity and who apparently owed so much to him.

The courage of these three Hebrews stands out on the pages of history as sublime! The king had reminded them that none of the gods had been able to deliver any people out of his hand; their own city, Jerusalem, had been overthrown. They could hope for no rescue from the death that was before them if they persisted in defying the king of the whole earth. Their answer was that their God, Jehovah, they were sure, was quite able to deliver them from the fiery furnace, or from anything He might choose, and would do so. But if not and if they were certain of it in advance—nevertheless, they would be His faithful servants and worship Him alone.

How sublime their faith and their courage! Such faith and such courage we may be sure are pleasing to the Lord. We must not expect that in every case God will thus deliver those who trust in Him; rather, as these Hebrews intimated, we are not able to know the wise plans of our God, nor what may be His will respecting what little remains of our lives. But of His power and love we are confident. We can trust Him where we cannot trace Him.

"Blessed Are They Who Put Their Trust in Jehovah"

The King was seriously disappointed at the only inharmonious that had occurred in connection with his great project, which he felt sure was to work such blessings to all the earth, and such honor to himself. In his fury he commanded that the furnace should be made seven times hotter.

The three Hebrews were bound in their clothing, and some of the strongest men of the king's guard were commanded to throw them into the furnace. As the bound men were thrown in, the flames came forth and enveloped those who had thrown them in, and destroyed them. The king already had had some evidence of the power of Jehovah God, and he intently watched the furnace. As the king looked toward the furnace, to his utter astonishment he beheld four persons walking in the midst of the fire, unharmed. He said to his counselors, "We cast three men into the furnace, but, behold, I now see four, free, walking in the fire, and the fourth has an appearance like a son of the gods."

What had he done? What should he now do? He called to the three, "Ye servants of the Most High God, come forth and come hither!" They came, unharmed, with not even the smell of scorching upon their clothing. Nebuchadnezzar acknowledged the miracle and praised the God who had thus by His angel of power delivered His servants that trusted in Him, and who had defied the king's mandates and yielded their bodies that they might not serve nor worship any god except their own God. Truly, "Blessed are all they that put their trust in Him."

WHAT YOU SAW 35 YEARS AGO

Quite a number of our citizens left for the Centennial on Monday afternoon prominently among whom were Rev. Uiterwijk, Mr. A. Visscher and sister and J. Den Herder of Zeeland and others whose names we did not learn.

Early on Sunday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock the boot and shoe store of W. and H. Elferdink was burglarized by two well known Holland citizens. H. Elferdink, sleeping over the store, was awakened by the noise of the thieves and proceeded down stairs to investigate it before dressing, and going in the right direction ran against one of them and clinched. This scared him so bad that he immediately proceeded to squeal and throw the blame on his partner in the crime. After an unsuccessful chase with his prisoner in hand to catch the other one, Henry Elferdink took his prisoner to the marshal's house and left him in charge. Henry then went back to his store to dress, and in the meantime the marshal locked his prisoner up for safe keeping; they then proceeded together to the house of the other thief, where they found the family all awake, breaking bread and drinking coffee. The marshal took his man and brought him to the calaboose. A bag full of boots and shoes were found in the thief's house which the Elferdinks recognize as their property, together with other articles which have subsequently been confessed to have been stolen also. They were arraigned before Justice Van Schelven on Monday morning, and after some preliminary skirmishing, the criminals seeing no way of escape, made a clean breast of it and plead guilty.

According to all reports a duel between two young men of this city has been appointed to take place to-night at midnight near the cemetery. The weapons are to be revolvers and they are to shoot until the dark angel overtakes one of them. A young female of the township is the supposed cause. It would be well for the township authorities to be on the lookout for the warriors.

The Mascot of Sweet Briar Gulch

By HENRY WALLACE PHILLIPS

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

A gray specter, right glittered in here and there that defied nothing, even when his eyes grew accustomed to the darkness.

It was an endless journey. In places where the dirt closed in he would be a full minute progressing a foot and a minute of such mortal terror as seldom falls to the lot of man of peace or soldier.

But it ended. Suddenly the boy's outstretched hand encountered only emptiness below. That frame had held. He dove into the space head first and landed on something soft and warm, the body of his partner.

He had found him. In a paroxysm of joy he flung himself upon the motionless figure and cried his heart out. This, too, he soon conquered. Jim had just so much show. Any delay might wipe it out. He searched the man's pockets until he found a match. By its light he saw the candle stuck into the post and lit it. Then he knelt beside his partner again.

Ches realized what had happened the instant before the calamity. Jim, startled by the noise of the yielding timbers, had made a rush only to be struck down by the rock, that now lay within an inch of him, yet struck into safety for all that. Had he gone a yard farther the life would have been smashed out of him instantly.

But now what? The flowing blood sent a sickening chill through the boy. Had he done this much only to be able to see his partner die? He drove his teeth into his hand again at the thought. What was that? Was it a trick of the tunnel, his heart sounding in his own ears or a rhythmic beat from outside? Hollow and dull fell that "clatter-clum-clatter-clum."

"Bud!" screamed Ches. "Tank God, dat's Bud!"

After half a dozen efforts he climbed the dirt pile and went back through the treacherous holes. The rider came so fast! "Oh," groaned the boy, "I'll never make it! Bud'll sink we're off somewhere an' pull on. Bud, Bud!" he called at the top of his lungs, but the tunnel swallowed the little voice.

Desperation made him entirely reckless. It was any way to get out before the mail man was beyond call. Glairy with sweat, he pulled, tugged, squirmed and wriggled along until a dirty, small bundle rolled down almost under the mail rider's feet.

"Whoa!" shouted Bud, with an astonished oath. "What's the—why, boy, what's the matter? Dash it, how you scart me!"

"Der tunnel's fell in, Bud. Jim's in dere where der frame's held. He's livin' yet, but he's got a turble cut in his head."

"How far back?" he asked. "Tree frames was held. Dere was seven, ten foot apart. How much is dat?"

"Forty feet—ten foot apart! No wonder! Oh, Jim! How could you have been so careless?"

The boy's shoulders shook once. "He worked like er horse. Now it's all gone, an' he's in dere." The face contorted out of all humanity, but he held the tears back.

Bud leaped from his horse. "Never you mind, Ches, lad," he cried, hugging up the little figure. "We'll get him out of that. Could we haul him out the way you went?"

"No; dere ain't room, and if you touch dat roof hard"—he shuddered.

Bud sucked in his breath. "If you weren't the sandy little man to try it!" he said. He stood a moment in silence going over it all.

"Ches," he said, "there ain't any time to lose. If Jim's out like that he may bleed to death in there when we could save him all right if we had him outside."

"There's a party of miners down the road eight mile. They was having their grub as I went by. Chances are they'll be there yet. They've got four men and a team. I could ride back, but I ought to be here working. Do you think you could stick on old Buck and ride there?"

Ches caught his hand. "I kin make it, Bud," he pleaded. "I cudden do nothin' if I stayed here, an' you could do a heap. Put me up and let me try."

"All right," said Bud. "The good Lord kept you from getting hurt in the tunnel. Perhaps he'll see you through again. Shut your eyes and hold on tight when you strike the high places and don't touch a rein. Leave it all to old Buck."

He stepped forward and caught the horse by the bit.

"Buck," he said, as though talking to a human being, "you and me have been through a heap together. Don't fall down on me now. Take the kid safe, old boy." He caught Ches up and threw him across the saddle. "You'll only have to tell 'em what's happened. The Lord send nothing happens to you. Goodby, you brave little devil. We'll win out yet. Go it, Buck!"

CHAPTER VI

AND while one of Jim's friends plied pick and shovel like a mad man the other was away—ing on top of a galloping horse, gripping the pommel of the saddle with all the strength he had and shutting his eyes when he came to the high places.

Captain Hanrahan's party were miners of substance. They were working their way out to a new country to suit their inclinations. It had just been suggested that it was perhaps time to hit the trail again when the captain saw a figure on a horse flying athwart the mountain side.

"Hub," said the captain, "that man's drunk or crazy."

"Holy sufferin'," gasped the man next him as the yellow horse slipped on a turn and sent a shower of gravel a thousand feet below, "that was a near touch!" as the horse caught himself and swept on.

"Looks to me like a case of trouble, cap," said a third speaker. "That ain't no man anyhow. It's only a boy."

"Horse running away with him probably. His folks ought to be clubbed for letting him out on such an animal. Well, spread out, boys, and we'll catch him."

But Buck stopped in two jumps at Ches' command of "Whoa!"

"Fren's!" cried the boy, "my partner's caught in a tunnel dat caved in on him. Kin yer help us out? Three mile above Jones' hill."

He had not finished the sentence before two men sprang for the horses. The rest grabbed picks and shovels and hurried them into the wagon.

"We'll be there, a-whooping," said Captain Hanrahan.

"Tanks," replied Ches weakly, and then the world went out. The captain caught him as he fell.

"Poor little cuss! He rid hard to help his partner," said the captain. "Humph yourselves, boys! All ready! Got the whiskey, Pete? Picks enough? Stick the axes where they won't jump loose and cut a leg off some of us. The the horse behind. Good animal, that. All right, let 'em go!"

They went over stones and gulleys, the tools clanging and banging fit to leap from the wagon, the men clinging to the sideboards for dear life; down hillslides like the slant of a roof, the horses keeping out of the way of the wagon; up the other side with the reeking animals straining every fiber; over bridges that bent fearfully beneath the shock of their onset; swaying around curves with the wheels slewing and sparks flying and over the level as though the devil himself were behind them.

It was the record trip for eight miles in a wagon in that country. The driver stood up, a foot braced on either side, the reins thrown loose, the whip plied hard and every urging that voice could give shrieked out by his powerful lungs.

It was like the rush of a fire engine plus twice the speed and twenty times the danger. Above the pounding of hoofs, the din of rattling metal, the crash, smash and roar of the wheels and the yells of the driver could be heard the man Pete, ex-cowpuncher, cheerfully singing:

"Roll your tails, and roll 'em high. We'll all be angels by and by."

Braced in the back corner sat Captain Hanrahan, his leg keeping some of the tools from going overboard, holding Ches in his arms.

"Curse it all, Billy," he screamed to the driver, "miss some of them bumps, will you? I've got on a new pair of pants."

"I'll take 'em clean off you the next time, cap!" retorted the driver.

They joked, which may seem heartless, but they risked their necks a hundred times, and that isn't very heartless.

"That's the place, I reckon, cap," said the driver, pointing. "Somebody working there now."

"Give 'em a nout," replied the captain.

Bud stepped out and held up his hand in answer to the yell. The wave of thanksgiving at the sight of this most efficient help took all the stiffness out of the knees of the mail rider. The tears rolled down his face unnoticed.

"You're welcome, boys," he cried as the driver sawed the frenzied team to a standstill and the men sprang out. "Reckon we are," said the captain. "Now, what's up?"

"Is the boy hurt? He ain't hurt himself, has he?"

"Naw. Pore little cuss is used up, that's all. He'll be around all right in a minute. Now, tell me what's loose."

Bud answered briefly, but completely. "Pete and Billy, get to cutting wood. The rest of you come here," commanded the captain.

"You ain't going to stop to timber, are you?" asked Bud in an agony of haste.

"I sure am," replied the captain. "All this trouble's come of carelessness. Now, you just keep your clothes on and let me run this thing."

"We'll have your friend out in no time, and there won't be no more men stuck in there with a hill a-top of 'em in the doing of it. What you've done there is a help all right, but it might easy have meant that we'd had two men instead of one to hunt for."

"You're dead right," said Bud. "Tell me what I'm to do."

The captain took hold as only a man can who has the genius for it. He knew by long practice what size of a relief tunnel meant real speed of progress—the least dirt to be removed to make it possible that men could work to advantage. And his tunnel, safely rough celled, went in at the rate of a foot a minute.

When at last they pulled the insensible man out into the light of day and found that while his wound, though severe and if neglected mortal, was not likely to be dangerous with good attention, the captain said that he must be getting about his business.

"Oh, stay a little longer, fellers, till he comes to," remonstrated Bud. "He'd like to have a chance to say 'Thank you.'"

"Bugs!" replied the captain. "You tell him he owes us a drink and as a particular favor to me please not to put his frames over four foot apart in that ground."

"Well, boys, I can thank you, and I'm going to," said Bud. "That man is my friend, and if you hadn't come as you did—"

"Say, let go," interrupted the captain. "You'd have done the same thing if you'd been us, wouldn't you?"

"Yes," admitted Bud reluctantly.

"And you wouldn't want to be thanked for it a white chip more'n we do," concluded the captain. "If there's any thanks coming it is to that little two foot chunk of man yonder. Snaking over that fall was a thing to put a crimp in anybody. You was bound to help your partner, wasn't you, son?"

The boy looked up into the captain's eagle face. "I'd er got to Jim," he answered simply. "I had ter chew me way in like a rat."

The captain stepped back and looked at him.

"By thunder," he said slowly, "I believe you would!" A change came over the thin, arrogant face. He stooped suddenly, raised the boy and kissed him. "Now, get out of this!" he roared at the driver as he leaped into the wagon.

"Pretty good folks when you're in trouble, ain't they, Ches?" said Bud. "What 'ud we have done if dey hadn't come? Ain't it 'most time Jim was moving, Bud?"

"I'll give him another spoonful of whiskey, but you can't expect him to start right up and hop around. He got an awful crack, boy."

For all that as the dose of strong liquor went down Jim's throat he opened his eyes.

"Hello, Bud! Hello, Ches!" he said wonderingly. "Have I been asleep? Why, what the devil's the matter with my head?" He raised his hand to the spruce gum bandage. "Pshaw, but I feel weak!" he sighed as his hand dropped. "Something's happened. What is it?"

There, with a friend on each side holding a hand, they told him the story. It was a sacred reunion.

The gratitude of the man saved and the protestations of the others that they would have done all they did a thousand times again would only seem childish in repetition. They cried, too, which is excusable in a child, but it is the monopoly of women. Nevertheless Bud and Jim and Ches cried and swore and shook hands and cried again until it was a pitiful thing to see.

"Well," said Bud at last, "this makes you feel better, but it won't get the work done. I've got to go out and fix old Buck and get in some firewood."

"Oh, I'll do that!" cried Jim, raising himself on his elbow.

"You!" jeered Bud. "You look like it! Now, you lie right down there and get well. That's your play. It would make us feel as if we'd wasted our time if we had to turn to and bury you after all the trouble we've had. You're good for two weeks in that bunk, old horse."

"Two weeks! I can't Bud; I can't! I must get up before that!"

"You lie down there. Hear me?"

"But I'll have to see to things around. You can't stay."

"I stay right here till you're well."

"But the mail!"

"The devil take the mail or anybody else that wants the job. Uncle Sammy won't hop on to my collar button because of the fine sendoff my friend the inspector 'll give. And somebody will get orry eyed up in town and come down to find what's loose. He'll take the bags then. It's all settled."

"But there are other things—"

"Let 'em rest. Now I'm off to do the chores. Oh, say, speaking of mail, here's a letter for you. I forgot all about in the excitement. Here you go. Come along, Ches, and help me carry wood."

The miner looked at the letter in his hand, and a tinge of blood crept into his white cheeks, then ebbed, leaving them whiter than before.

Suppose there were other men who wanted her, men with money, learning, wit and influence! Was this bitterest of blows to fall upon him when he was already down? He looked at his hands, green from loss of blood. "I tried," he muttered; "I tried."

Still the very touch of the paper seemed to have something warm and heartening in it. It was from her, anyhow. With sudden strength he tore it open and read:

Dearest, Dearest Jim—I yield the whole case. You are right.

It is to my shame that clear sightedness came from no source within me, but from a brave example set.

My little cousin married the man she loved last week, and of course Miss Anne was a high functionary.

Oh, what a stirring there was in me, Jim, watching them and thinking of you! They will be as poor as church mice, but they do not care, and theirs is the wise economy.

Life is too short to waste, Jim. I see it now. I put it all in your hands, dearest. If you cannot come to me I shall come to you.

I believe I'm only lukewarm by habit, not by nature.

I wish I could tell you how sorry I am for the time I have squandered.

I'll show you. That will be better.

Any time or any place and no conditions now, Jim. That's all, my dear, brave lover. Good night!

Your own, ANNE.

He was sitting bolt upright. Once more he devoured the letter. Then he sank back and closed his eyes.

"Thank you, my darling. I can rest now," he said.

The golden sunset light played in riotous joyousness on the cabin walls; the little creek laughed out loud; so did Ches and Bud approaching the cabin. It was a beautiful and happy world.

"The Liver Pills act So Naturally and Easily."

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what

CHARLES C. WHEELER PASSES AWAY.

After a lingering illness of several months with meningitis Charles C. Wheeler, one of Holland's most prominent and respected citizens, passed away at one o'clock last Friday afternoon. Although his serious condition was known for some time the news of his death came as a shock to his many friends here who had hoped for his recovery.

Mr. Wheeler was sixty-five years of age at the time of his death, having been born in St. Charles, Ill., on September 3, 1846. It was in 1893 that he came to Holland, where he founded with his two brothers, Niles and Brainard, the Great American Screen company. This concern was later transferred to Geneva, Ill. Mr. Wheeler secured patents on several types of screens and for a long time was himself one of the best traveling salesmen on the road.

After taking up his residence Mr. Wheeler became prominent in social and religious circles in this city, where he was always foremost in movements aiming toward the bettering of civic conditions. His many acts of kindness and charity and his genial and modest disposition won for him numerous friends in every walk in life who feel his loss keenly.

Deceased is survived by a widow and one daughter, Mrs. E. J. Fairbanks of this city. Also by four brothers, Brainard of St. Charles, Ill.; Miles of Geneva, Ill.; Kittridge, formerly pastor of the Ashland Avenue Baptist church of Chicago, and Hiram, editor of the Quincy, Ill., Journal, and by one sister, Mrs. C. Davison of Austin, Minn.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the home at 236 Columbia avenue, the Rev. J. M. Vander Meulen, pastor of the Hamilton Grange church of New York city, officiating, assisted by Dr. J. W. Beardslee of this city.
